

CSR NEWS, one of the leading news services on corporate social responsibility (CSR) on the web, has launched a new tool: csr-literature.net – a bibliographical online database in business ethics.

The web-interface of csr-literature.net is easy to operate and makes quick research in more than 10.000 database entries possible, thereof approximately 6.000 professional articles (usually including abstracts) from the internationally most important journals in business ethics, including:

- Business Ethics Quarterly (BEQ)
- Business Ethics: A European Review (BEER)
- Business and Society (BS)
- Business and Society Review (BSR)
- Economics and Philosophy (EP)
- Journal of Business Ethics Education (JBEE)
- Journal of Business Ethics (JOBE)
- Journal of Human Values (JHV)
- Teaching Business Ethics (TBE)
- Zeitschrift für Wirtschafts- und Unternehmensethik (zfwu) (Journal for Business, Economics and Ethics)

Topicality and the steady increase in number of database entries on csr-literature.net are guaranteed by weekly updates of current editions of journals and other publications.

Please note, csr-literature.net does not contain online articles (pdf files). It is a bibliographical search tool.

Features

Literature research is supported by manifold features like full-text search, navigation by index of authors or navigation by a listing of individual volumes of journals. Additionally, csr-literature.net offers a premium membership which provides its members with the possibility to download complete data bases by means of prevalent literature administration software like Endnote, Reference manager and Latex.

Memberships and Prices

Access to csr-literature.net requires a personal login and password. Big institutional clients, e.g. libraries, are able to access the database via IP-addresses (i.e. without individual accounts). The following prices (including VAT) are annual fees and comprise the above mentioned features:
